

Scott Dominic Carpenter
Bio

Raised in the US and the UK, Scott Carpenter teaches French literature at Carleton College (MN). A writer of both fiction and non-fiction, his short stories have appeared in such venues as Ducts, Prime Number, Chamber Four, The MacGuffin, Subtle Fiction, and The Carleton Voice. His collection, This Jealous Earth (MG Press 2013) has been broadly acclaimed, called “charmingly nostalgic” by Publisher’s Weekly. His debut novel, Theory of Reminders (Winter Goose Publishing) has been called “a stellar achievement” by Kirkus Reviews (starred review).

Carpenter divides his time between Minnesota and Paris. When not writing (or teaching or grading papers), he can often be found on rural roads atop his bicycle.
